

VECTOR: Connexion™

THE CORNERSTONE OF FINANCIAL EDI

VECTOR: Connexion™ can empower your institution to provide a full range of Electronic Commerce banking services. Designed in cooperation with a number of prominent corporate services banks, VECTOR:Connexion continues to be the leading — and most versatile — financial electronic data interchange (EDI) software available.

The market for value-added financial EDI services remains strong as greater numbers of corporations, some with extremely high transaction volumes, close the EDI loop by paying their customers electronically. This trend continues to accelerate as traditional cash management delivery is converted to EDI and other electronic means. Banks are facing new challenges related to the operational demands of serving multiple customers and at the same time, satisfying unforgiving payment windows, and processing large numbers of transactions.

The many processing options of VECTOR: Connexion™ allows your bank to satisfy the special requirements of sophisticated EDI corporations while it serves as the reliable financial engine for standard electronic services. As the cornerstone of your bank's financial EDI service, VECTOR: Connexion™ distinguishes you as a leading provider of electronic corporate services and helps ensure that you retain and build your share of the growing electronic financial market.

WHEN TIME IS MONEY, SPEED IS ESSENTIAL

Offering comprehensive financial EDI payment and collection services and translation for delivery of EDI-oriented information, VECTOR: Connexion™'s sophisticated functionality also provides many other unique advantages:

Serves Multiple Customers at the Same Time – For example, payment origination files can be accepted from corporate customers while remittance data is simultaneously being extracted from the warehouse and translated for delivery to receivers.

Fast Turn-around of Acknowledgments – Acknowledgment processing can be accomplished immediately without interfering with work-in-process supporting other customers.

Data Warehousing – Payments of all types can be stored safely in the VECTOR: Connexion warehouse for managed release on the due date.
